Says Congress Must Not Be
"Hustled or Driven" into Military Union.

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) proposed a compromise Army-Navy unification plan today with the assertion that congress must not be "hustled or driven" toward any "military" merger.

Bridges put forth his bill as a compromise of keeping the service alive talked of a move to exempt teen age draftees from overseas occupation duties.

Ask for Delay

Simultaneously, members of the House military committee reported that the war department has asked that action on universal military training be postponed until next year lest the issue become involved in the forthcoming congressional election.

The Thomas bill generally is believed to have tacit approval of President Truman.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), a former Army officer, said he was studying the possibility of offering the teen-age amendment to the draft extension bill in the belief its adoption might erase one likely point of controversy between the house and senate. The present draft act is due to expire May 15.

The Present Plan

The house voted a nine-month extension but eliminated 18 and 19 year olds from draft liability and prohibited all inductions between May 15 and Oct. 15. They could be resumed then only on a finding by the President that voluntary enlistments were insufficient.

"I don't think congress can escape the responsibility for making a decision one way or the other," Knowland told a reporter.

The California said he thought it might be possible for the Army to shift older men, now serving in this country, to overseas posts and fill their places with younger inductees.

There have been some indications that senate leaders might seek to lay aside the pending $3,350,000,000 British loan bill late this week to take up the draft question if progress lags on the financial measure.

Much Equipment Also Wiped
Out in Blaze.

Special to The Star

GALION, April 22—Fire destroyed a large part of the building and equipment of the Crawford Metal Craftsmen Corporation's steel burial vault factory here Sunday night. Damage is estimated at several thousand dollars. The loss is covered by insurance.

The Galion fire department answered the call at 6:30 p. m. and had the fire under control within an hour. Kyle, fire chief, said, however, the rear section of the plant, including ovens and painting booths, was destroyed. Origin of the fire was not determined.

The factory at 1,000 Harding Way East is the newest of several in Galion making steel burial vaults. The corporation was organized in 1938 and employs 15 men. Company officials said today that the equipment can be replaced and the factory will be in partial production within a few days. Full production, however, may not get underway for several months.

Sun Gives Assistance To Make Peacetime Easter Big Success

Symbolic of the birth of a new peace, a bright, warm sun lent encouragement and pleasure to Marionites and other millions in Ohio as they paused yesterday to observe the first peacetime celebration of Easter in half a decade.

The holiday was marked by overflowing congregations in churches and at sunrise services where the resurrection of Christ and the significance of the season were observed. The Associated Press reported.

Promenaders blossomed out in gay toggergy.

A religious message by Dr.

Robert B. Whyte, pastor of the Old Stone church at Cleveland voiced the typical attitude of optimism and hope.

"The Easter revelation gives confirmation to our highest and dearest hope—the hope of immortality," said Dr. Whyte. "After the ravages of war, let us not linger too long in the cemetery. It is natural and human to go occasionally to show respect to our loved ones, but let us know that they are not there, but are risen."

Marion Churches Crowded

In Marion 300 attended the annual sunrise services at the Harding Memorial of Girl Reserves and Hi-Y clubs. Two hundred and fifty members of Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar, attended sunrise services at Calvary Evangelical church.

Marion churches were crowded, some to overflowing, with Easter worshippers yesterday in as nearly a perfect setting as nature has provided for the Easter festival in recent years. Bright skies and a warm sun later in the day made the Easter parade a really joyous event here.

Celebration of the resurrection of Christ started with sunrise services held by numerous congregations and organizations, with at least two outdoor services. Some sunrise meetings were followed by breakfast at the churches. Easter dramatization, pageant, communion and baptism were marked at some of the services.

Services of communion, baptism and reception of new members were held at the church of the Holy Spirit, 1230 S. M. today on route 23 opposite the Mar-O-Dei Inn. Patrolmen said the accident occurred when Yake made a left turn into the Inn drive in front of the North car.

12 Accidents Mar Easter

Prospect Man in City Hospital
Suffering from Skull Fracture.

The Easter weekend was marred by 12 accidents in and around Marion, local police and state highway patrolmen report. Eight persons were injured, one of them seriously, in accidents near Marion.

Eugene W. Williams, 36, of Prospect is in city hospital suffering from skull fracture and deep head and arm lacerations as the result of a collision between his car and one driven by Paul E. Twigg, 24, of 617 Henry street Saturday at 7:55 p. m. on route 203 two miles north of Prospect.

His son William, 7, was treated for cuts and bruises as was Miss Patricia Percy, 20, of Prospect who was riding with Twigg. Twigg suffered minor injuries.

Patrolmen said the cause of the accident was insufficient lights. Williams had only one head light and Twigg was driving with only parking lights, patrolmen said. The Williams car was demolished while the Twigg car was damaged to the extent of $400.

Woman, Son Injured

Mrs. Vynila Parks, 36, of 379 Park boulevard and her son Carl, 13, suffered cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding struck a tree Sunday at 5:25 p. m. four miles south of Marion on the Gooding Pike, state highway patrolmen report. Lloyd H. Parks, 39, who was driving, told patrolmen his front wheel locked. The car was damaged to the extent of $125.

David E. Zentler, 29, of Edison is in the Morrow county jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated as the result of a collision with a car driven by John E. Ulmer, 49, of Bucyrus Sunday at 7:45 p. m. on route 61 six miles north of Mt. Gilead. Damage to each car was estimated at $100.

Damage of about $35 each was done to cars driven by Burger N. North, 26, of 152 North Main street and Ronald D. ## HOKUM CHARGE SETS OFF ROW IN OPA PROBE

Businessman Calls Backers of Agency Guilty; Solons
Join in Uproar.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 22 — President Arthur Hesse of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers today called OPA supporters guilty of "hokum" and set off a loud word row in the senate banking committee.

Testifying at the start of hearings on legislation to extend price controls beyond June 30, Hesse observed that administration leaders wanted OPA extended without "scrupulous amendments" and called this "hokum of the highest order."

Senator Tobey (R-NH) shouted for Hesse to steer clear of opinion. "Are you saying that anybody who favors extension of OPA is guilty of hokum?" asked Senator Barkley (D-Ky). Told by Hesse that was the case, Barkley roared:

"Then I'm guilty of hokum. You will have to improve your testimony before I have any respect for it."

Tobey remarked he was going to discount Hesse's testimony.

"Well, I'm not discounting it," Senator Capahart (R-Ind.) declared. Capahart and Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles and Price Administrator Paul Porter had called businessmen "every sort of name."

"What is sure for the goose is sauce for the gander," Capahart summed up.

Starts Up Again

"Well, let's get on with the goose," suggested Barkley and Hesse resumed his testimony—"a little overwhelmed," he said.

Hesse said he called the administration stand against crippling amendment "hokum" because OPA is "crippled by its own inefficiency, stubbornness and lack of realism."

Bowles and Porter have declared that amendments to the price control law adopted by the house would be inflationary. The house changes, including a guaranteed profit clause and a progressive end to subsidies, are before the senate.

Down town, Porter addressed a mass meeting of 3,000 OPA workers today, declaring:

"I believe the opposition has reached its high point. There is widespread public support for continued strong price control."

He expressed the opinion that OPA now has completed the major part of its postwar price adjustments.

Senator Downey (D-Calif.) said OPA's chances in the senate may be considerably improved by mail from consumers who don't like the way the house treated the price control agency.

"My mail and telegrams are running 20 or 25 in favor of continuing OPA without crippling amendments," Downey told a reporter.

Noting that senators who want to pare down OPA are getting mail too, Downey said "I think it should make them hesitate."

At the office of Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), an outspoken critic of OPA, it was reported that mail in

One Killed As Engines Crash in Erie Yards

An Erie railroad fireman by the name of Hoag from Huntington, Ind., was killed here this afternoon in the derailment of a freight locomotive in the yards 300 feet west of the Kenton avenue crossing.

At 3 p. m. the victim was still pinned under the locomotive. Workmen from the Erie roundhouse were cutting him out with acetylene torches.

Railroad officials said he was dead. He was an employee of the Marion division of the Erie with headquarters in Huntington and his first name was not immediately known here.

The accident happened when the engine of section two of train No. 8, an east bound troop train collided with a freight locomotive. The derailment happened shortly before 1 o'clock.

Other details of the accident were not available as officials were investigating the accident and had not returned from the scene of the derailment.

Whether any others were injured was not reported. Officials could not say whether the dead man was a member of the crew of the derailed freight locomotive or the engine on the troop train.

The troop train was delayed approximately one hour by the accident.

BYRNES FACES TEST AT PARIS

To Leave Tomorrow for Talks
Which May Change Course of War History.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Secretary of State Byrnes sets out for Paris tomorrow and another try at world peace-making, gravely aware of his own account of the possibilities of failure.

The secretary is slated to reach Paris in ample time to begin on Thursday a series of critical conferences with Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France.

Some of Byrnes' closest associates and advisors are talking of this meeting as a possible turning point in the history of World War II.

They suggest that actually it could mark the end of efforts by Britain, Russia and the United States to work harmoniously to set up European peace settlements and to build the United Nations into a powerful agency.

Should this happen, and Byrnes himself is reported to have indicated the possibility to a meeting of the senate foreign relations committee last Friday, it probably would result in open and unlimited creation of spheres of influence—something the United States thus far has opposed whenever possible. Also it would link America and Britain even more tightly in common interests and policies than they now are.

Even if these extremes do not develop, the Paris conference may see the United States making one of its strongest moves

U. S. Slaps New Low Ceilings on Costs of Homes for Vets

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 22—With one eye on the OPA fight in congress, Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt turned his attention today to the virtually steady rise in home building costs since 1923.

Over the weekend, Wyatt issued an order imposing new and lower limits on sales and rental prices of at least half the new dwellings to be built under the veterans' emergency program.

But the housing chief declared the whole program was jeopardized by last week's house action in approving an amendment—plastered OPA bill liberalizing price control of a vast range of items, including some building materials.

Unless the senate reverses the house, Wyatt said in a statement, the measure would make "impossible the production of homes for veterans at a price they can afford."

While the new order alone will increase by 50 per cent the number of homes built to sell under $8,500, Wyatt said, the goal is to bring the majority of houses down to sell at around $8,000 and less.

As announced Saturday the

CHIEF PARTIES DUE TO UNITE IN NEW REGIME

Deposed Shidehara Stated To Join with Leaders Despite Overthrow.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, April 22—Premier Kijuro Shidehara and his cabinet resigned in a group tonight under pressure from the leading political parties, who were expected to join the deposed prime minister in forming a new cabinet.

All ministers agreed to the resignation after Shidehara and Cabinet Secretary Wataru Narashi explained to them that this action was "necessary to stabilize the political situation," Narashi said in announcing the decision.

Shidehara became premier six months ago after a series of political shakeups which followed Japan's surrender.

The action, predicted since no party succeeded in gaining a majority in the April 12 election, came after a series of political maneuvers so complex that they dazzled the ordinary Japanese and left the makeup of the next government obscure.

Hirohito Accepts

The 74-year-old premier took his resignation to the imperial palace shortly after 7 p. m. (Tokyo time) 5 a. m. EST. Emperor Hirohito accepted it in a one-hour audience but followed with the additional practice of asking Shidehara to remain in office until his successor could be appointed.

Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida conveyed the resignation decision to General MacArthur previously through one of supreme headquarters' staff officers.

This first full-time occupation cabinet, appointed soon after the surrender, ended its six months reign under fire from all but one political party, all Tokyo newspapers, most trade unions and other organizations.

Criticism has been almost constant the past four months over the cabinet's failure to solve the food problem and other difficulties connected with living under rehabilitation conditions.

Factors in Downfall

Blame for the livelihood problems and growing distrust of what was called a "tax nothing" cabinet were the basic factors in Shidehara's downfall. But organized political opposition finally forced the resignations—evidently made according to plan—after Shidehara repeatedly announced he intended to remain in office until the next diet.

The Progressive party, of which Shidehara is scheduled to become president tomorrow, supplied the final push to the cabinet which teetered precariously in two other major crises in the past few months. The Progressives refused to accept Shidehara as president until he resigned as premier.

FOOD SHARING DRIVE

TO START MAY 12TH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Every person in the United States may be asked to take a direct part in helping feed people in starving lands under a nation-wide food contribution plan outlined today.

Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace will serve as chairman of the "emergency food collection" campaign, which begins May 12 "with every community mobilized."

This country's people will be requested to contribute "either food canned in tin or money to buy food," Wallace said in a statement accepting the chairmanship.

"The proceeds will be distributed through the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration on a basis of greatest need."

The drive will be conducted as a private campaign but will work closely with the government's famine emergency committee. No deductions will be made for administrative or operating expenses.

Local chairmen in the recent victory clothing collection in 19,597 cities and towns will be asked to serve in the food drive.

Tigers Crush Feller Jinx 3-2 as Cleveland Shows Need for Slugger

Detroit's snarling Tigers, having smashed a triple jinx that plagued them through the years were looking for their chops today and shouting defiance at the baseball experts who had predicted the wartime world champions would not repeat.

Prior to this season the Tigers had (1) lost their last eight opening games; (2) beaten pitcher Steve Gromek of Cleveland only once in seven tries; (3) taken the measure of Bob Feller but twice in his last nine starts against them; or since Rookie Floyd Goudy (who found the baseball world outspicing the Indians' fire-baller in a game which decided the 1940 pennant.

Detroit's snarling Tigers, having smashed a triple jinx that plagued them through the years were looking for their chops today and shouting defiance at the baseball experts who had predicted the wartime world champions would not repeat.

The net result is that the Tigers have won four of their first five games and are breathing not only on the necks of first place Browns but also once-beaten Red Sox in the early season pennant race. The Sox have won one more game than the Bengals.

Finally Come Through
Detroit had to travel into over-land yesterday to break the Feller jinx. The Tigers accomplished it in the 10th inning, 3-2, when

Eddie Lake, who scored an un-expected run on errors by Cleveland's Ken Keltner and George Case in the third inning, tallied the winning run in the 10th as Ed Mayo drove a double to left.

The Indians drew first blood in the second frame as Les Fleming was safe on Hank Greenberg's error, journeyed to third on Keltner's one-baser and scored on Boudreau's long fly.

Trucks hurried the Sox in the 10th, but they were unable to score. The Indians won the game 3-2.

Championship pitching by the Tigers' hurlers accounted for an even break in the first four games of the 1944 season as opposing hurlers were held to a total of 20 runs, 10 hits and 10 errors.

Frank Hayes' single, a walk and a long fly by George Case tied the score in the bottom half of the frame, but Trucks' error in the seventh frame, which allowed a run to score, was a brilliant piece of relief.

The revenge-minded St. Louis Cardinals fought back from a three-run sixth-inning deficit to defeat the National League champion Chicago Cubs 7-5. Victory sent the Cards into a tie for first place with Brooklyn.

Brooklyn continued to feast on the New York Giants, defeating their interborough rivals for the third straight time 2-1 as rookie Joe Hatton outpitched Bill Vosselle for his first major league victory.

Marion's Cardinals showed promise in every department as they blasted the city champs, Schlairer Transfer, 15 to 2 in their first exhibition game of the season yesterday at Lincoln park. Three pitchers worked for each side.

The brother duel between Joe Roseberry of the pros and Max Roseberry of Schlairer provided the game's most interesting highlights with Joe Roseberry getting the edge. The hitting of Charles Frey for the Cards also pleased the fans.

In the fourth inning Max Roseberry, batting then as a third baseman, got on first by a fielder's choice after Joe Roseberry had walked French, the first man to face him. Max tried to steal second and was nipped by Joe.

Joe faced his brother's pitching first in the sixth. With Wiebel on second Joe slammed out a double for the first hit off Max, scoring Wiebel.

Russell Wolfe of Upper Sandusky, a right halfback, and William Doolittle of Mansfield, a quarterback, are also among the approximately 120 players who have survived the early spring weed-out.

All-American captain Warren Ambling, right tackle from Dana, Ill., has lived up to pre-pennant expectations and will be a mainstay of the 1944 squad.

Cecil Souder of Bucyrus, a regular end of the 1943 team, is expected back in school in the summer or fall quarter.

Exley has expressed pleasure over the offense at the end of three weeks' drill but says plans to work on defense from tackle to tackle.

As he puts it, "We seem to be able to move, but whether we can stop anybody remains to be seen."

The second half of spring practice will be climaxed by an intra-squad clinic game May 11.

HAPPY REDS LAUNCH SERIES WITH CARDS

Win First Two Games of Year at Pittsburgh.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, April 22.—The Cincinnati Reds, revitalized by a double dose of victory serum, opened a three-game series with St. Louis here today. The pitching assignments went to southpaws Johnny Vander Meer for the Reds, Max Lanier for the Cards.

The Reds played heads-up ball to sweep a doubleheader with the Pirates, 8-2 and 4-3, in Pittsburgh yesterday, snapping a four-game losing streak which got underway here opening day.

Heusser held the Pirates to seven hits in the first game while the Reds ranged up on four Pittsburgh moundmen for 12 blows.

Miller drove in five runs. Joe Beggs went the route in the ninth, his teammates giving him victory with a three-run outburst in the fourth. Two bases on balls, Miller's fluke single and a double by catcher Ray Lamanno produced the run.

The Pirates got to Beggs in the second, scoring all their runs on five hits, including Jim Russell's two-run homer. Beggs held the opposition to four blows the rest of the way in.

First Irish Baseball Team in History Set for Open

The St. Mary Irish will have a diamond nine this year, the first time in the school's history. Attempts have been made to organize baseball in previous years with no success but C. Nelson Irwin said today he will definitely be able to put a team in the field this year.

Twenty-one boys have been working out when weather permitted for the past three weeks and an opening game has been scheduled with Marysville for 2:30 p. m. April 27 at Lincoln Park. The Irish will go to Harpersburg May 2 and entertain the Harpersburg crew here May 6.

Attempts are being made to schedule games with Galion, Mt. Gilead, Sandusky and Richwood. They are still in the tentative stage.

Cohen Irwin said he would start Charles Dunn on the mound against Marysville with Tom Moran doing the catching. Relief pitchers are Walter Anderson and Dan Smith.

Ed Irwin will hold down first base, Edmund Burke will handle second, John Baldauf will be on third and Bob Wintersteiler will be at shortstop.

In the outfield Gene Morris will be in left, Bob Pruzzo in center and either Fred Sampson or Bob Armstrong in right.

Other boys on the squad are Dick West, Jim Malone, Dick Senkler, Tom Wagner, Frank Klaus, Dick Worley, Ken Krugbaum, Mike Huber and Gene Murphy.

How a "Stone Man" Sees World in Looking Glass

By ED JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
GREAT FALLS, Mont. — He has been at Columbus hospital, stone stiff for 14 years, but every one says Pat Rafferty is the personification of good cheer.
Rafferty is 54 now, and knows the arthritis which froze the muscles of his strong body and made him "the Stone Man" will not give in to any medical science yet known to man.
Pat was born in Ireland and came to America as a lad. He worked as a furniture mover and repairer and in the Anaconda Copper Mining company's plant, Great Falls, smelter for many years before he was stricken.
Now he likes to do things for other people. He likes to help those in similar condition, and digs up many a dollar—via friends and letters, written by nurses.

Through a Looking Glass
Pat says he has a lot of fun, too, lying there in bed. He doesn't need any one to tell him what takes place along Second avenue, North. He has an intricate device set up over his bed, with a mirror placed so that he can see as much as a person standing at the window.
"I can see the women folks waiting on the corner for a car to pass," Pat explains, "and I see a pretty girl in slacks quite regularly. When my friends go by they wave at me, but of course, I can't wave back."
He can see everything that goes on in his room, too. Up above the mirror a glass plate has been installed and Pat can read a paper or book or letter. All he needs is someone to stop now and then and turn the pages. He receives 15 to 25 letters a week from friends throughout the United States. He wants more.

He's Not Downhearted
"I don't have a bad time of it," says Pat. "It's not such a bad life as would make a man downhearted."
Pat's especially interested in sports and he likes it when such people as Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Strangler Lewis and professional baseball players visit him, as many have. His brother, Mike, and sister, Mrs. Allen Casey, visit him often, and Pat says he is happy.
The nurses—all of them in the hospital—take a special interest in him. Once in a while they take Pat to a ball game in a special ambulance and a special bed from which he watches the game.

U. S. TO INVITE RED NEWSMEN FOR TOUR

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 22—The state department will extend to three Russian war correspondents a potentially significant invitation to take a look at how American works and thinks and lives in peacetime.
The three—Ilya G. Ehrenburg of Izvestia, Gen. Mikhail R. Galaktionov of Pravda and Konstantin M. Simonov of Red Star—came here to meet with the American Society of Newspaper Editors.
Their visit was planned by the newspaper organization to promote an exchange of ideas between the day by day historians of two of the world's greatest powers.
The Russian writers gave the country's top ranking news executives a bluntly frank idea of what they think about this country's press.
Some of it was favorable: some of it, too, was sharply critical. That's the kind of a report the state department hopes they will take home to Russia—one based upon a trained newspaperman's first-hand observations.
The Russian newsmen will be given a free hand to see how ready-to-go machines roll off the production lines, how people live in big cities and in small towns, how newspapers function without government control, how things are here generally.
Although it was confirmed officially that the invitation will be extended, there was no indication yet as to whether it will be accepted. The three presumably will have to await an okay from Moscow.
If they accept it will constitute another step in the endeavor jointly pushed by the state department, the society and by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, and Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, to break down the barriers against free movement of newsmen and the free flow of their findings in all parts of the world.

CHICAGO GIRL DEAD IN WAVE OF SHOOTINGS

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 22 — Police strove today to clear up a series of apparently senseless shootings in suburban Chicago areas that began last week with the fatal shooting of a 12-year-old girl in a forest preserve near Des Plaines.
Cook County (Chicago) highway police reported 15 unexplained shootings Saturday night and Sunday, including a two hour spree by gunmen who roamed through suburban Oak Lawn and Evergreen Park Saturday night, firing indiscriminately through windows and doors.
Terrified residents in the two communities, southwest of Chicago, reported bullets struck lamps and other objects but no casualties resulted. Police said several persons narrowly escaped being hit as the gunmen, shooting from an automobile, fired into nine homes, a church and a store in the two villages.
Two residents of Palos township, also southwest of Chicago, reported bullets were fired into their homes. Northwest of Chicago, shots were reported fired into homes at Fairview and Des Plaines.
Meanwhile an augmented force of forest preserve rangers patrolled the forest preserve seeking persons carrying firearms as a result of the fatal shooting of Nancy Lowrey, 12, of Des Plaines.
The girl was shot while picnicking in the forest preserve with a group of friends, Donald Ostrand, 17, Chicago, was shot through the hand Saturday in the same area. Both victims were struck by .22 caliber bullets.

Briton Says U. S. Has New Type Atom Bomb

By The Associated Press
BRIGHTON, ENGLAND, April 22—Quoting information he said he had obtained from "an American" during his last visit to the United States, Prof. Harold J. Laski declared yesterday that the U. S. has a new atom bomb powerful enough to "devastate" Indiana and Illinois.
Five of the bombs could "destroy the whole of the United States south of the Mason-Dixon line," Laski asserted.
Laski, who attacked the policy of secrecy surrounding the development of atomic energy in an address before the British cooperative party conference, declined to reveal the name of his source, but declared that the new bombs were much more powerful than those dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

All Out of Step but OPA

ONE peculiarity about the office of price administration has become a collection of people who are not for the office. It is the only organization in the United States in which the only organization in America is the only organization in America.

The point is in the nature of being an own expert, because it knows as much or more about any given business than the experts who are giving it out.

In any given case, therefore, the OPA can be said to be out of step with the common sense of the people running the business and the OPA, it is right. This it has done. Furthermore, any dissent from this judgment is punishable by an immediate campaign of calumny and slander paid for out of public funds, some of which were contributed by the miscreant who has incurred OPA's bad will.

It is a singular state of affairs, this arrangement that finds everybody out of step but the OPA and its friends. It is singular because all this has been done as part of government, and government is supposed to represent everybody, not just the temporary pets of whatever appointed jobholders happen to be riding high at the moment.

When did it become the unchallenged fashion in Washington for public agencies to abuse the people whose tolerance and taxes support them?

Recovering Our Ideas

IN A RECENT speech about outworn ideas of finance that handicap enterprise and employment, Emil Schram, president of New York Stock Exchange, said the United States needs a "reconversion of thinking" on the part of government, management and labor.

In a broader sense, it might be said there is need for recovering our ideas about almost everything. The reconversion would not mean adopting something new in all cases. Many times it would entail a return to something old suspended or modified by circumstances which no longer exist.

An inventory of ideas, if one were taken, would reveal that many of those now having great effect originated in the circumstances of depression and war. Many of these, moreover, were not planned policies, but improvisations. Carried over into an era of postwar inflation, they are incongruous. Moreover, they are dangerous.

Mr. Schram points to the need for new capital to create peacetime jobs, a need whose fulfillment is blocked by government policies developed to deal with conditions no longer in existence. He points to the dangerous carryover from wartime lend-lease of huge foreign loans made on a basis of politics and says foreign investment is the rightful task of private capital, not public funds. Yet, in his specialized field of finance, as in the specialized fields of management and labor relations these new-old ideas are shunted aside by theories and practices which may have nothing to sustain them but momentum development under circumstances no longer in existence.

State Medicine Is the Issue

IT IS a tragic misfortune for the American people that extremists are doing most of the talking in the argument over ways and means of providing more adequate medical care. They misrepresent the issue, which is whether or not the United States is to institute a plan of state medicine.

Everyone is in fundamental agreement on one point: that more adequate medical care for a greater number of citizens is desirable. The differences arise over the means of providing more adequate care. The bulk of the medical profession favors development of voluntary methods which already have produced tremendous improvement in health security. These are the familiar methods of prepayment of medical costs and insurance.

The alternative offered by the profession's critics is state medicine, calling for involuntary payments from the public, a new division of federal bureaucracy and political control of the medical profession. This is the real issue. It is clouded deliberately and maliciously by persons who try to make it appear that the issue is whether or not to give more Americans more adequate medical care. They profess to be interested in a goal which is not at issue at all, when what they are really interested in is the means.

The medical profession has only one weapon with which to defend itself against the attempted political invasion of its prerogatives—the confidence of the people themselves. It is a battle for another consent. On one side are the doctors asking for the right to keep their profession out of politics. On the other side are the politicians itching for the privilege of getting their hands on the doctors and on the vast public funds that would accrue under state medicine.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

More on Democratic Campaign Errors.

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Another thing about Democratic campaign strategy. Not only have the party executives exhibited confusion in a series of "mistakes" as to whether they are running Mr. Truman or Congress this year, but they have been wading up a side-line campaign on the Roosevelt side. First one member of the Roosevelt family was trotted out as a prospective candidate for governor of New York; a younger man without previous experience of political pretensions, who, if he wanted to start as his father did at that age, would run for the town council or assembly. This was done by an in-describable minor newspaper in New York, the same newspaper which, incidentally, led the fight against the Truman administration in the Pauley matter, smearing it with oil while it is an indecipherable publication, it always pretends to represent what the late Mr. Roosevelt might want.

Truman at Hyde Park Then, Mr. Truman went to Hyde Park to inaugurate memorial administration and made a speech supporting Roosevelt policies, and on the avenue of popular publication, the newspaper and magazine, both carried articles and pictures, most of them his fourth term campaign picture. In other words, there has been a sudden re-emergence of interest in Roosevelt by those most interested in the coming election—for his first annual memorial day, but also just as their campaigns are getting started.

Now, there is nothing surprising about candidates running on Roosevelt's record. A lot of politicians ran many years after Washington's death upon his memory, and I have no doubt 20 years from now (if things are still the same as they are now), some child may run for office claiming Mr. Roosevelt, once said that he was a good man. The point of protest I wish to make is that this is a new age. The problems facing it are entirely different from those Mr. Roosevelt faced, most ineffective. I do not wish to argue our defeat. Mr. Roosevelt was right or wrong, only to point to the absurdity of politicians trying to wrap themselves in his memory, instead of facing the issues which now confront this world.

The issues are more critical today than in the history of time and space. After Washington, elections decided only issues of thirteen states and markets; and in Roosevelt's time, forty-eight states and 35 million guns. Now they will decide the fate of the world and the atomic bomb. We are in world politics up to our necks and everywhere we are confronted with the most vital—and no doubt conclusive—issue of totalitarianism versus freedom. It is not a question of life and death. We should know it. They certainly know it. Now, what would Mr. Roosevelt have done about that? He never faced that problem. He can not answer from the grave. It is up to present day politicians to give their own answer.

In domestic affairs, the issues are up to the present day, and the issues are up to the present day. We have the issues of inflation, which could rob the people of all the value of their work, the issues of control through pressure groups and power politics which are threatening it. We are not determining the effectiveness of democracy.

Debt Situation Changes It was one thing to talk about the debt of the people when it was twenty billion dollars, when Roosevelt came in. Quite another policy may be necessary now when it is nearly three hundred billion dollars.

The problem of taxation is one thing when it is designed to confiscate the wealth quite another after the wealth is confiscated. The old problems of capitalism such as prices and competition have been inflated also to a point where we do not know it is a question of how much more the balloon will stand. It is one thing to handle a balloon when you first start putting in it, but some change of tactics are called for if you have been blowing into it for fifteen years. Who can say that Mr. Roosevelt, who blew himself entirely out of wind trying to get an inflation started, without success during the early years of his administration, would not, if alive today, turn around, seeing what the war had done to everything, and recommend the opposite course?

In any event, the Roosevelt administration is over. The taking of his name by politicians for issue in the past year and from history and it will be what we, in the world, make it. We certainly can not make much of it by rattling skeletons.

Some say, and wisely: Let us leave Roosevelt to history. Others say: History is apt to be short. Short or long, it will be a new history and it will be what we, in the world, make it. We certainly can not make much of it by rattling skeletons.

Furnishings in the hall where the UN Security Council has been meeting include three bars, one a 10-footer.

Three bars thanks to the foresight of their American hosts, delegations involved in international squabbles are not subjected to the embarrassment of drinking with each other.

In fact, not only are facilities provided for each of the disputing parties, but also a third where non-partisans can retire for the purpose of inducing neutral spirits.

Thus far, only one flaw has been revealed in the elaborate preparations of the planning committee. That came the afternoon Gromyko found they didn't give curb service.

German Gold in World Bank

Large Deposit Has Escaped Allies Thus Far.

By FLORA LEWIS

Associated Press Writer

BASLE, Switzerland.—A large sum of German money which the Allies have so far been unable to touch is on deposit in the Bank of International Settlements in Basle.

The bank's general secretary, Raffaele Pilotti, refuses to say how much German gold and assets the bank now holds and Allied diplomats said they haven't yet been able to find out.

However, figures published in the bank's annual report indicate that it has as a very minimum $50,000,000 belonging to Germany and probably considerably more in accounts which the report does not specify according to countries.

The bank holds a special, though somewhat precarious international position, under the international position, under the 1930 Hague agreement, which set it up to facilitate World War reparations payments. It is immune from freezing regulations and outside officials interpret its charter as exempting it from being liable to confiscation of funds for reparations in the new peace settlement.

Japan was an active member of the bank. The First National Bank of New York City is the American member.

Allied diplomats say the bank will have to be dissolved eventually because its functions are in a large part duplicated by the new Bretton Woods fund. They predict a tough international wrangle when liquidation begins.

At the last counting, the bank's gold holdings alone were about $31,700,000.

Its president, during the war, was Thomas H. McKittrick, an American, but the most influential of its directors was Walther Funk, Nazi finance minister on trial at Nuremberg. Funk was able to vote the shares of Austria, Denmark and other occupied lands.

Apparently these shares as well as the accounts of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia have been sitting untouched from the start to make a member, and it remains to be seen whether the Soviet Union will claim the assets of the Baltic States.

History Anonymous

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

ONE of history's big writing jobs, a chronicle of the Army's part in World War II, will be ready in about five years.

A series of preliminary volumes, destined to be rewritten, already have been published. The latest covers the first five days of fighting for the Omaha beachhead in the Normandy landing.

At work on the final history are possibly 500 officers, enlisted men and civilian historians, culled from reports, interviews, photographs and drawings which in many instances originated under enemy fire.

The result is expected to be a monumental narrative of probably 120 volumes, the most comprehensive chronicle of any war and the first for any conflict in which American troops have been engaged.

If five years seems long, note that the official history of World War I is not ready even yet. It is a compilation of first orders and other significant documents, rather than a narrative, and is now expected to be completed in a year or so and to require some 28 volumes altogether.

The 128-volume collection of records of the Civil War did not appear until 1902.

With plans made in advance for the first time, the Army set out from the start to make a complete record of World War II, placing historians in each war theater headquarters and with each field army, air force and technical service. In the later stages teams of historians went into action with combat troops.

Gen. George C. Marshall, then chief of staff, directed the prompt writing of preliminary accounts of individual campaigns, for the special benefit of wounded men. These have been found valuable, officials said, in preparing the final work.

Others of the preliminary chronicles were accounts of the first phase of the North Africa campaign, the Papuan operation

Crystal Growing Comes Next

by FRANK CAREY

OPPORTUNITY for the world to create an entirely new industry—artificial production of quartz crystals that are vital to radio—has been provided by German wartime research.

American technological experts report the Germans developed a technique for "growing" in laboratories the same kind of crystals which occur in nature.

Virtually the entire world supply of natural quartz crystals now comes from mines in Brazil.

During the war, extraordinary measures were undertaken to increase the production of the tiny, electrically sensitive crystals which constitute the heart of a radio transmitter and also are used in the depth-sounding apparatus of submarines.

It takes nature about 100 years to "grow" quartz crystals, formed by the action of sun and rain upon silica, or sand. The crystals often are imbedded in rocky formations and difficult to mine.

The U. S. technical intelligence branch (TIB) says quartz crystals were grown artificially in German laboratories in several weeks.

At present, the report said, the German artificial technique is 10 times more costly than the process of mining the crystals. But it added, "there is, of course, a probability that further research and development would greatly reduce the cost."

The technical experts described the German process as follows: A "seed" of quartz crystal—a very small natural crystal—is placed in one part of a machine. A large quantity of silica, or sand, is placed in another part.

The machine is then filled with water under pressure and sufficient heat is applied to melt the sand. Gradually, the silica dissolves in the water. The water is kept circulating around the "seed" crystal, which does not dissolve. Instead, the crystal slowly grows by attracting to itself constituents of the silica solution.

The report said the Germans turned to research on artificial crystals when they were hard-pressed during the war for natural ones.

"Great efforts were made to keep the crystals (from Brazil) out of the hands of the Germans," the report said. "Although these efforts were only partially successful, due to smuggling through ostensibly neutral countries, the Germans had only a very limited supply and their radio equipment was consequently less satisfactory."

The Lowdown on Mexico Baseball

"MEXICAN baseball isn't bad," declared Tarbell, the old-time baseball collector and player fence painter today, a Vera Cruz southerner in my younger days.

"What I like about baseball in Mexico, went on, "is its color, mood and pace. No hurry. It's nothing for a game to start late and if a contest is stopped in a hot dispute with the umpire it is often up to get it in motion again."

"The whole spirit is different. More relaxed and dangerous. I remember we had a there who carried a guitar all through it and often left his position with a row, teen and went to the grandstand to see some. Mexicans love horses, you know, in my time the whole team would ride a diamond in a horseback. Some fans carry lino."

Elmer mused a few seconds. "Some Mexican ball fans can be tough hounds, brought nothing in those days of whiplash and fading away if you m, ly or hit into a couple. My most exciting came one day when I was at bat, and the bases full. A big fellow got, set and in a loud voice demanded 'What did you do?'"

"What one," he replied. "What else c. The guy was Pancho Villa."

"He was a marauder once who was told California. A name was and he always a position near the pitcher on a big charger with solid silver bridle and gold in the saddle. When a pitcher was off he would gallop around him with a gun hand, belting orders. That's why I league. Horses in a pitcher's box almost nervous."

"Baseball in Mexico had its nice I though. It took six hours to play nine and we always got two days to play a leader. And they always held a bull between the games of a twin bill. Right diamond. ## A Bird Walk

By TRUMAN TWILL

Out of a clear sky, clunk, there was this tation to go for a bird walk, first we were coaxed. Confidently, we are not the type one would pick to hobnob with birds.

This invitation was exceptional. It came a lady whose interest in birds is academic just wonders why they teeter on wires if winds when they could be lying comfortably the flat of their backs in quiet roof gutters. Just wonders and wonders.

The bird walk was set under way. "Don't so close to the buildings," the lady advised you will increase the percentages of saving cowboy hat. Remember, pigeons are jocular will do anything for a laugh."

Soon, we were away from the built-up s and getting into the neighborhood pao "This," observed the lady, "is where we v some of the go-kid-danged birds that hoped on two legs. Watch sharp now, and you will see one come popping out of door like a yellow hammer frisking.

Like a rotten apple tree, the bird, som I remember from a book about birds the only thing there was to read in a ce office one afternoon during the Coolidge a stration."

Safely through the hangout of the pub the next zone of fascinating probabilities w feeding stands at the edge of town. Here our guide, making a broad gesture, "I've seen some of the liveliest birdbrains there went to Washington to become state have it on the impeccable word of an old pun is intentional—that bird goes the places in the parked cars of an et would make a pair of love birds seem like gatus and Toto, or is it Tojo, by comas Storky, you might as well admit you are ing.

There was a brief interruption while a fisher waddled past, chomping his bill and his head like Life-Begins-At-40 in trouble with slipping dentures. "There," planned the guide, "goes a culture trying to himself up with cheeseburgers, but he can't the first bite off the roof of his mouth, remarkable when a talking acquaintance our feathered friends teaches one if one's eyes open and one's beak shut."

Quite so, lady, but about the bird? Wasn't it silly to start a bird walk after in the first place? How could anyone see was up in the sky after dark? What was a joke?

"No," said our guide. "This is no joke. I a chick takes a dumb peep for a stroll in springtime, that's no joke, just a bird's ulterior motive, nothing but fresh, clean air. Anyway, the bird walk is over. Shut up phone for a cab."

And that the only bird we ever Judge, honest.

UN Set To Resume Iranian Issue Then Tackle Franco Case

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, April 22—The United Nations security council has two major questions confronting it this week. One is whether to drop the Russian-Iranian case now; the other is Franco Spain.

The council will end a long Easter weekend recess tomorrow, with its program for immediate consideration of the Russian-Iranian case.

The problem, in brief, is whether the council will accede to a vigorous demand that it drop Iran forthwith from its agenda. The Iranians have formally withdrawn the complaint against Russia which they lodged in London last Jan. 18. The Russians have reported an agreement with Iran and have demanded that the council cease making Iran its business.

But the council apparently will sustain its action of April 4 in shelving the case until May 6, at which time it expects a report whether Russia has completely evacuated Iran as Russia promised.

Franco Aide Denies Threatening Peace

By The Associated Press
MADRID, April 22—Spain's public works minister denied last night that the Spanish government was a threat to world peace and that the Franco regime intended to remain in power regardless of any action taken by the United Nations, even economic sanctions.

Jose Maria Fernandez Lledreda, replying to accusations made to the United Nations security council, denied specifically that Spain was carrying on atomic research or had massed troops at the French frontier. He also denied a charge by Spanish Republicans that mass executions had been conducted of political opponents held in prisons.

TILT FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR GROWING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 22—The battle between Fred J. Milligan and Paul M. Herbert, candidates for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor waxed warmer today as Milligan charged his opponent was attempting to ride on the coat-tails of former Gov. John W. Bricker, unopposed candidate for the U. S. Senatorial nomination.

Milligan said Herbert had told a Republican meeting in Cadiz last Friday night that Bricker asked him to be a candidate again for lieutenant governor. Herbert has served three terms in the office.

"I have been informed by Governor Bricker that he never asked my opponent to be a candidate for lieutenant governor," Milligan said in a formal statement.

"In fact, last Aug. 17, while in the army and four months before my opponent became a candidate, I was encouraged by Governor Bricker to become a candidate for lieutenant governor and receive his pledge of support. My candidacy was announced two months later in reliance upon my opponent's word to me and to others that he would not run for lieutenant governor."

When Milligan announced his candidacy, Herbert was flirting with the possibility of again seeking the nomination for governor in another battle with Alf. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert. Later, as a public leader introduced Paul M. Herbert to withdraw from the gubernatorial race, Paul then announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

Milligan said today that "Governor Bricker never asked me to withdraw either before or after my opponent became a candidate."

CHIEF JUSTICE STONE TAKEN ILL IN COURT

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 22—Chief Justice Stone was led out of the supreme court today by two of his colleagues and a physician was summoned immediately.

Stone was supported under the arms by Justices Black and Reed. The court abruptly recessed shortly before 2 p. m.

A court attaché said at 1:50 p. m. that a doctor had been summoned. The interruption came just after Justice Reed had completed delivery on an opinion.

There was a moment of silence and then discussion behind the judges' bench with justices on either side of the centrally-seated Stone speaking to him in low tones.

Stone, who had spoken several times in delivering opinions, was reading a paper at the time.

As other justices talked with him, Stone spoke out in a voice audible to the front rows of the courtroom.

The 73-year-old justice was heard to say: "The case should be stayed . . . and investigation."

The meaning of his words was not immediately clear to those in the court room.

Stone appeared somewhat pale but not unnaturally so. Ordinarily the court recesses from 2 to 2:30 p. m. for lunch. The interruption today came about 1:45 p. m.

Officials later said Justice Stone had suffered an attack of indigestion.

VANDENBERG TO AIR BRITISH LOAN STAND

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 22—British loan proponents counted heavily today on the help they expected—but weren't entirely sure they would get—from Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Democratic leaders had wanted to take the day off to give members more time to get back from Easter trips home. But their anxiety to get Vandenberg, chairman of the senate Republican conference, on the line for their side of the case led them to arrange the meeting.

LaGuardia's Food May Aid Marshall in Chinese Truce
By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The civil war which has broken out in Manchuria between Chinese Communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang government forces is hourly becoming more critical.
The situation might easily develop into a fratricidal struggle which would engulf all China with its five hundred millions.
It is a tense moment. There may be a chance of halting the conflict, but if there is it would seem to rest on the square shoulders of Gen. George C. Marshall, America's special envoy, who has raced back to Chungking from the United States to employ his vast skill as a Dewitt Mackenzie conciliator in trying to effect a truce.
Actually an armistice would be just the beginning of most difficult bargaining. The cleavage between the Chinese Communists and the totalitarian government of Chiang Kai-shek is wide.
One thing seems clear: The Chinese Communists, who are exceedingly strong in northern China and Manchuria, have every intention of consolidating that under their own jurisdiction. This doesn't necessarily mean that agreement with the Nationalist government isn't possible, for the Communists might be willing to participate in a heavily liberalized federal government which would recognize Communist state-rights in the disputed territory. However, one of the greatest obstacles to such an arrangement lies in the fact that the Communists are claiming an exceedingly rich area—both in natural resources and development—and the Nationalists naturally covet it.
But Marshall brought about one truce between the warring factions, and he may achieve another. Having accomplished that, he begins and in this connection I can't escape the feeling that he may get indirect but nevertheless far-reaching support from an unusual source—F. H. LaGuardia, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.
What I'm driving at is this: China is in the grip of one of the most terrible famines of history. Thousands are dying daily, and many millions are facing death by starvation. Hunger is a breeder of trouble, for there's nothing which can do more to stir passions and render folk incapable of rational thinking.
The UNRRA is shipping food to China, and if the relief gets there fast enough and in sufficient quantities, the easement may be reflected in the political situation, and be equally welcomed by all factions.

YOUR HEALTH
By HERMAN BENDSEN, M.D.
Balanced Breakfasts
What kind of breakfast should you have? Big breakfast, little breakfast or none at all? This is not a question to be decided by an easy-going-going-too. Nor is the answer to be found in personal preference.
There are definite considerations of health which show that everybody needs a real and substantial meal on which to start the day.
Those who have studied the problem think that the breakfast should make up about one-fourth of the total food needs for the day. That means one-fourth of the calories or heat value, one-fourth of the protein, which is the material necessary for building new tissues and repairing worn-out ones, and one-fourth of the vitamins and minerals.
Some people get into the habit of omitting breakfast in an effort to lose weight but that is the wrong way of reducing weight. Their energy would be held up on a more even keel if they divided the food they eat among three meals a day rather than two.
If breakfast is skipped, the necessary food will have to be eaten at the other two meals in order to maintain health and well-being. Many persons who skip breakfast make the problem worse by grabbing a bite of whatever is handy for lunch and then making the evening meal supply practically all of the nutrients needed.
Planning a well-balanced diet with three meals a day is not a very difficult task if a few simple principles are followed, but the fewer the meals, the greater the danger that the food eaten will fall short of furnishing the needed proteins, vitamins and minerals.
Many people say that they just do not feel hungry at breakfast time. But in most instances, this is because they arise too late for breakfast and must hurry off to work or to keep some appointment.
Very few persons skip breakfast if they go to bed early enough, arise in the morning at such a time as to give them a sufficient interval to dress, read the newspaper, and perhaps do a little work in the garden before starting the day's activities.
It is not astonishing that people who have eaten a heavy meal the night before and must be awakened in the morning have little desire to eat breakfast.
Breakfast can be planned from six food items, fruit, cereal, egg, toast with fortified margarine or butter, jam and a beverage which means milk for children.
In many ways, your body is like the engine of your car. It takes fuel in the form of food and transmutes it into energy, the energy which you use to accomplish your day's work. It is just as reasonable to expect your car to start on an empty tank as to suppose that your body can furnish energy for the morning's activities without proper food.
A good breakfast can work wonders in the way you feel. Try it and see how much it adds to your contentment and the ease with which you perform your forenoon tasks.
North America has more species of game birds than any other continent.
